① R07 LEGEND MAGICAL WATCH DIAL® by Revelation

The new R07 Legend Magical Watch Dial® inaugurates the Grand Sport line by Revelation by asserting its distinctive identity codes through an extreme interpretation of the fundamental brand concept: the Revelation System®. A simple 90° turn of the bezel transforms the dial to reveal large date and retrograde day displays. This second face is revealed in an original manner by means of mechanical elements cut out and staged in a graphic and colourful way. The innovative and adrenalin-packed case of the R07 Legend Magical Watch Dial® is designed to associate various materials and structures with high-tech accents. The strap has also evolved, attractively revealing its core material along the edge.

② R-50 by BRM

In 2006, BRM presented its first "disruptive" R-50 in titanium. With its movement directly inspired by a motorcycle engine, mounted on carbon arms, the R-50 rapidly became BRM's iconic model. Since then, it has permanently evolved and is presented today in titanium, makrolon®, titanium and gold or gold.

③ 3429 SKELETON by Epos

Transparency and versatility guided Epos in the creation of the 3429 Skeleton. This wristwatch transforms effortlessly into a pocket watch, simply by releasing the case attachment system on one of the vertical sides. A foldaway stand means it can also be admired as a desk clock. The Unitas 6498 calibre is thus reunited with its original function, which is to equip pocket watches. Epos has embellished this movement with engraving, while skeletonisation creates magnificent transparency. Such meticulous finishing is highlighted by the simplest of dials, comprising a minute track, small seconds and hour-markers, and proposed in a choice of colours that includes ruthenium grey and bright green. This transformable timepiece is produced as a 2,015-piece limited series.
